Oakland Township Parks and Recreation and Dinosaur Hill Nature Preserve have partnered to bring Oakland Township residents and others exciting new programs at Lost Lake Nature Park. Family, friends and neighbors are invited to explore everything this partnership has to offer at FREE fall open houses.

Open houses are FREE! Open houses are FUN! Open houses are for the whole family! During these social-distancing times we have adjusted our open houses to ensure safety for the public. For the Autumn all open houses will require preregistration and we are limiting each time slot to 10 individuals. Registration information can be found on our website www.dinosaurhill.org

LOST LAKE OPEN HOUSES
Each open house has a 12pm-1:30pm and 2pm-3:30pm session

September 27th: Cranes and Herons
Throughout our programs at Lost Lake we typically have one or two members of a very specialized group of birds which can be found in numerous regions of our park. These large avian critters have long, long necks and walks upon stilts, slowly pacing the borders of our kettle-lake keeping a keen eye out for frogs, fish, and other delicacies hidden below the placid depth. We are of course talking about cranes! We love our great egrets, great blue herons and sandhill cranes and have so much to say about them. Join us as we spend a little bit of time lakeside listening for, and watching for these large birds. We will even teach you how to put together origami cranes!

October 25th: The Foxes
Frankly, around the start of autumn we notice that numerous nature organizations spend all of their energies focusing on the busy squirrels getting ready for winter. We would like to take a different approach and focus on one of these friendly arboreal rodent’s predators: the fox. Michigan is home to two different species of fox, the red and gray fox. Join us as we get up close and personal with a fox mount, learning about the specialized body parts and creative thinking that make these members of the canidae family so formidable at hunting despite being solitary animals. Because these animals have such gorgeous coats we will also be putting together a fun colorfully orange craft for our younger earners to take home.

November 20th: Earth Day in November
We feel as though we were robbed of a proper Earth Day celebration this year and we want to get your favorite holiday back. For this special open house we are going to be putting together recycled crafts presents to give to our loved ones this holiday season while also talking about the importance of ecological preservation, recycling, and responsible stewardship while also taking plenty of trips out into the quiet woods to see, up close, specimens of this planet that are worth our efforts to save

December 20th: Crazy Michigan Weather
One thing any Michigander knows is that putting your coat back in the closet at the end of winter is a surefire way to bring about another blizzard, and the same goes with folding those t-shirts away after August. We seem to have wild days of ice and fire gingerly sprinkled throughout every one of our ten day forecasts. How is it that meteorologists discover these weather patterns and what tools do they use? Join us at Lost Lake as we set up our weather station and take some measurements from the air while learning about how the tools used to predict the weather. We will even be making our own weather forecast instruments to take home!

We love Halloween and nothing screams Halloween in nature like nocturnal shenanigans. We will be meeting outside with flashlights and bug spray before heading out on the trails to learn a little bit about the animals that call the dark home. We will even have packets on how to protect owls to take home so that participants can continue their study!

Lost Lake Nature Park, 846 Lost Lake Trail, Oakland, MI 48363

There are more than 45,000 species of spiders across the world and some of these creepy-crawlies are far more deadly than others. Luckily in Michigan we only have two true spiders to worry about, and both of them are very rare to encounter. Join us at Lost Lake Nature Park as we take a look at some pretty wacky spiders that can be found around the globe before examining our very own living brazillian rose-haired tarantula. Afterwards we will be taking to the trails in an attempt to find wild examples of these hair-raising critters. Before we are all done, we will be putting together our own giant spider’s to take home to freak out our parents!

A healthy ecosystem contains a variety of species, and even some species that humans might not find desirable play a vital ecological role. We find that many people have misconceptions about the importance, or even have irrational fears about some of our favorite members of the Canidae family: coyotes. Join us as we take a close look at these relatives of dogs and examine their role in the ecosystem by observing a coyote mount. Afterwards we will head out on the trails to see if we can identify coyote calls, tracks, or signs of these elusive predators. Participants will even be taking home their own coyote poster.
